

- 1 I'm a sprinter. I'm so fast that I'm the speediest land animal in the world.
- 2 I don't mean to brag, but I can run 70 miles per hour. The police could give your dad a ticket for driving that fast.
- 3 My claws don't retract like your cat's do. They act like cleats and give me traction when I run.
- 4 Some baseball players paint black lines under their eyes to reduce the sun's glare. I was born with black lines on my face that do the same thing for me.
- 5 I may run fast, but I also get tired fast. If I don't catch my prey in less than a minute, I quit. "Races aren't always won by those who run fast" (Ecclesiastes 9:11).
- 6 Now you can draw me—a cheetah!

You Draw It!

by Marty Nystrom

Using the steps above, draw your cheetah here.